

David Bird Custom Cordage

Established 1998

“It started as an idea to keep my employees busy during slower winter months. But the story of using discarded float rope that could injure right whales is what really grabbed people’s attention. They just loved the idea of protecting whales and helping lobstermen. Our weavers choose the color combinations. The result: a door mat that received Best New Product award in 2009 at the New England Products Trade Show in Portland.”

About Custom Cordage

Whether it is 1-1/2” thick rope, spliced mooring lines, dog leashes, cording for the military, laces for first responders’ boots, cord for bungee, lobster traps or for children’s play apparatus ...

we do it all. We make custom cordage products specifically to meet each of our customers’ requirements. Our employees are very experienced and most have cross trained to do multiple production jobs which gives us the flexibility to react quickly to special orders and market changes.

My hobby is restoring antique automobiles. I also enjoy golfing in summer and playing ice hockey in the winter.
